

GEORGE WASHINGTON CORBETT

Died at his home in Hot Springs, N. C., Sunday, July 29, 1928, at about six o'clock in the morning, George Washington Corbett, age 54. Mr. Corbett had suffered from rheumatism for 8 or 10 years, but had been seriously ill since last October. It was Mr. Corbett's request that he be interred as soon as possible after death, hence the funeral was Monday morning at ten o'clock, conducted by a former pastor, Rev. A. L. Goodrich, of Lexington, Ky.

Mr. Corbett was formerly from eastern North Carolina, in Pender County, where Rev. Mr. Goodrich was preaching at the time. His funeral sermon following this sketch, was greatly appreciated by the family and friends of Mr. Corbett. The body was interred at Fairview church near Hot Springs. He was buried with Masonic honors, being a 32nd degree Mason. He was also a member of the Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Corbett and family came to Hot Springs about five years ago. He was looking for a good place to live where his health would be better. He liked Hot Springs so much that he remained there the remainder of his life. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ada W. Corbett, and the following sons and daughters:

George L. Corbett, of St. Clair Shores Michigan; Kenneth K. Corbett, Victor B. Corbett, Hill J. Corbett, Miss Maud Corbett and Paul C. Corbett, all of Hot Springs. He is also survived by five brothers and two sisters in Pender County, near Wilmington, N. C.

A short talk was made by Rev. I. H. Gorenflo of Hot Springs also.

George C. Holder & Sons of Newport, Tenn., funeral directors, who had charge of the body, did everything possible to make the occasion everything it could be.

Emenett Corbett, of Detroit, Mich., nephew of the late G. W. Corbett, came to the funeral, but he and Mr. George Corbett and family arrived too late for the funeral.
